Dear Jane,

How is everything going in Shanghai? Knowing you are quite into the Chinese culture, I am writing to inform you of the Chinese Culture Festival bound to be held in Quanzhou next month.

The festival, I do believe, will give you a better understanding of the splendid Chinese culture. Therefore, I sincerely invite you to come and enjoy it. As the festival will include various amazing activities, I'd like to send you a brochure in English. Could you please leave me your address so that I can mail it to you soon?

Looking forward to your reply and coming.

Yours,
Li Hua

第二节（满分 25 分）

Two weeks later, Jenny and Zara landed in Phoenix. Jenny's family waited at the airport and extended warm welcome to them. Jenny's dad swept Zara up in a giant bear hug. Blood rushing to her face, she forced a smile to hide her embarrassment. Back home, Zara was greeted by delicious food in a harmonious atmosphere. During her stay, Jenny's family constantly expressed their gratitude to Zara for taking care of Jenny.

Feeling the family's warmth, Zara began to sob. In between sobs, Zara admitted that she envied her because she had never experienced the love. Jenny wiped her tears away and joked "Look! who's the cry baby now!". Jenny's mother hugged Zara "It's OK. If you like, we can be a family." Zara felt the warmth surging through her body, glowing with happiness. That weekend, for the first time, Zara experienced the joy of being in the center of a loving family.
